

Look up. There's a new constellation on the horizon. A bright new company created solely for the purpose of making convergence—digital convergence—a reality. Right now, we incorporate all the elements needed to take broadband local access to the next level. To a future of super-access and super-convergence where fast, reliable, integrated IP telephony, video and Internet access are the norm. We know about that future because we're creating it.

ARRIS. The future of local access is converging. Right here. Right now.
